EXHIBIT B

Certain Risks Relating to LCD

Important Note: As noted elsewhere in these Terms, the LCD are not being structured or sold as securities or any other form of investment product. Accordingly, none of the information presented in this Exhibit B is intended to form the basis for any investment decision, and no specific recommendations are intended. Company expressly disclaims any and all responsibility for any direct or consequential loss or damage of any kind whatsoever arising directly or indirectly from: (i) reliance on any information contained in this Exhibit B, (ii) any error, omission or inaccuracy in any such information or (iii) any action resulting from such information.

By holding and using LCD, you expressly acknowledge and assume the following risks:

1. Risk of Losing Access to LCD Due to Loss of Private Key(s) or Custodial Error

A private key, or a combination of private keys, is necessary to control and dispose of LCD stored in your digital wallet or vault. Accordingly, loss of requisite private key(s) associated with your digital wallet or vault storing LCD will result in loss of such LCD. Moreover, any third party that gains access to such private key(s), including by gaining access to login credentials of a digital wallet or vault service you use, may be able to misappropriate your LCD. Any errors or malfunctions caused by or otherwise related to the digital wallet or vault you choose to receive and store LCD, including your own failure to properly maintain or use such digital wallet or vault, may also result in the loss of your LCD.

2. Risks Associated with the Ethereum Protocol

Because LCD utilises the Ethereum protocol, any malfunction, breakdown or abandonment of the Ethereum protocol may have a material adverse effect on LCD. Moreover, advances in cryptography, or technical advances such as the development of quantum computing, could present risks to LCD including the utility of LCD for obtaining Products, by rendering ineffective the cryptographic consensus mechanism that underpins the Ethereum protocol.

3. Risk of Mining Attacks

As with other decentralised cryptographic tokens based on the Ethereum protocol, LCD are susceptible to attacks by miners in the course of validating LCD transactions on the Ethereum blockchain, including, but not limited to, double-spend attacks, majority mining power attacks, and selfish-mining attacks. Any successful attacks present a risk to LCD, including, but not limited to, accurate execution and recording of transactions involving LCD.

4. Risk of Hacking and Security Weaknesses

Hackers or other malicious groups or organisations may attempt to interfere with LCD in a variety of ways, including, but not limited to, malware attacks, denial of service attacks, consensus-based attacks, Sybil attacks, smurfing and spoofing. Furthermore, the use of open-source software, creates a risk that a third party or a member of the Company team may intentionally or unintentionally introduce weaknesses into the core infrastructure which could negatively affect LCD, including LCD's utility for obtaining Products.

5. Risks Associated with Markets for LCD

The Company will not support or otherwise facilitate any secondary trading or external valuation of LCD. This restricts the contemplated avenues for using LCD to obtain Products and could therefore create illiquidity risk with respect to LCD you hold. Even if secondary trading of LCD is facilitated by third party exchanges, such exchanges may be relatively new and subject to little or no regulatory oversight, making them more susceptible to market-related risks. Furthermore, to the extent that third-parties do ascribe an external exchange value to LCD, for instance as denominated in a digital or fiat currency, such value may be extremely volatile and diminish to zero.

6. Risk of Uninsured Losses

Unlike bank accounts or accounts at some other financial institutions, LCD are uninsured unless you specifically obtain private insurance to insure them. Thus, in the event of loss or loss of utility value, there is no public insurer or private insurance arranged by us, to offer recourse to you.

7. Risks Associated with Uncertain Regulations and Enforcement Actions

The regulatory status of LCD and distributed ledger technology is unclear or unsettled in many jurisdictions. It is difficult to predict how or whether regulatory agencies may apply existing regulation with respect to such technology and its applications. It is likewise difficult to predict how or whether legislatures or regulatory agencies may implement changes to law and regulation affecting distributed ledger technology and its applications, including LCD. Regulatory actions could negatively impact LCD in various ways, including, for purposes of illustration only, through a determination that LCD are a regulated financial instrument that require registration or licensing. Company may cease operations in a jurisdiction in the event that regulatory actions, or changes to law or regulation, make it illegal to operate in such jurisdiction, or commercially undesirable to obtain the necessary regulatory approval(s) to operate in such jurisdiction.

8. Risks Arising from Taxation

The tax characterisation of LCD is uncertain. You must seek your own tax advice in connection with ownership of LCD, which may result in adverse tax consequences to you, including withholding taxes, income taxes and tax reporting requirements.

9. Risk of Alternative Products

It is possible that alternative products could be developed that are materially similar to the Products. The Products may compete with these alternative products, which could negatively impact the Products and LCD, including LCD's utility for obtaining Products.

10. Risk of Insufficient Interest in the Products

It is possible that the Products will not be used by a large number of individuals, companies and other entities or that there will be limited public interest in the creation and development of comparable products more generally. Such a lack of use or interest could negatively impact the development of the Products and the potential utility of LCD, including its utility for obtaining Products.

11. Risks Associated with the Development and Production of the Products

The Products are under development and may undergo significant changes over time. Although we intend for LCD and the Products to follow the specifications set forth in Exhibit A, and will take commercially reasonable steps toward those ends, we may have to make changes to the specifications of LCD or the Products for any number of legitimate reasons. This could create the risk that LCD or the Products, as further developed and maintained, may not meet your expectations at the time of ownership of LCD. Furthermore, despite our good faith efforts to develop and produce the Products, it is still possible that the Products will experience malfunctions or otherwise fail to be adequately developed or maintained, which may negatively impact the Products and the potential utility of LCD, including its utility for obtaining Products. In addition, irrespective of undertaking commercially reasonable endeavours and due to the nature of developing an experimental technology the Company may not ever be able to create a functioning prototype, to develop the services or platform or to produce a commercial Product.

12. Risk of Dissolution of the Company

It is possible that, due to any number of reasons, including, but not limited to, an unfavourable fluctuation in the value of Ether (or other cryptographic and fiat currencies), decrease in LCD's utility (including its utility for obtaining Products), the failure of commercial relationships, or intellectual property ownership challenges, the Products may no longer be viable to operate and the Company may dissolve.

13. Risks Arising from Lack of Governance Rights

Because LCD confer no governance rights of any kind with respect to the Products or Company, all decisions involving the Products or Company will be made by the Company at its sole discretion, including, but not limited to, decisions to discontinue the Products, to sell more LCD for use in the Products, or to sell or liquidate the Company. These decisions could adversely affect the Products and the utility of LCD that you hold, including LCD's utility for obtaining Products.

14. Risks Associated with AR

AR is a relatively new market with a large number of well-funded players, all with significantly larger resources than the Company. An agreed-upon standard for AR has not yet been established and may require additional technology beyond which the Company has access to. Also, rapidly emerging technologies may render current technology obsolete or inefficient. In addition, the commercialisation of AR glasses and software may not ultimately be successful as it is a new and untested technology. Therefore technology risks, market risks and financial risks are all factors in determining a successful commercial product and participant in the AR space. All of these risk factors should be considered carefully before owning LCD.

15. Unanticipated Risks

Cryptographic tokens such as LCD are a new and untested technology. In addition to the risks included in this Exhibit B, there are other risks associated with your holding and use of LCD, including those that the Company cannot anticipate. Such risks may further materialise as unanticipated variations or combinations of the risks discussed in this Exhibit B.
